

Colloquiums on Biodynamic Preparations

Online sessions to learn and exchange on BD Preparations

100 years on from the initial impulse given by Rudolf Steiner, the Biodynamic movement has expanded across the world. Biodynamic practitioners from all over are carrying forward the work with biodynamic preparations in different and changing socio-cultural and agroclimatic contexts. To learn from their different experiences and challenges, while strengthening the foundations of the biodynamic preparations is fundamental to continue supporting the growth and development of the biodynamic movement into the future.

The Biodynamic Federation in collaboration with the Section for Agriculture are organizing this year three online colloquiums on Biodynamic Preparations. The main aims of these colloquiums are to learn about the foundations of the Biodynamic Preparations, to strengthen the networks of learning and collaboration among biodynamic practitioners around the world, and to reflect together on future paths for the growing challenges faced by the global movement.

The first colloquium will be held on June 1st at 3 pm (CEST) on the topic:
“The Essence and Quality of Biodynamic Preparations”

In this session experienced BD practitioners from across the world will exchange knowledge and experiences around the foundations of Biodynamic preparations, their understanding of quality and how they enhanced it. Representatives of the Fellowship of Prep- makers from U.S will finalize the session discussing how to assess and perceive quality through chromatography. During the session, there will be time to meet and exchange mutual experiences with biodynamic practitioners from different countries of the world. To join this session please register in the following link:
